

I like the no call law the way it is. I want to be able to answer the phone and speak to people I know, not people trying to sell me something or even if they say they aren't selling something, they always ask for money. My suppertime with my family is more important than phone calls trying to get me to switch credit card companies or hear someone trying to get me to support their group. Maybe they are worthwhile causes, but I want my homelife to be separated from their enticements, etc. The only time I want to answer the phone is if someone I know is on the other end.

I hope the no call law will get to stay the way it is. I think it is fine the way it is and I do not anyone tampering with it.

Any company that wants to sell me something should send me something in the mail. That way, I can decide if I want it or not.

Thank you.
